• SPEAKER •

Kenneth Crowe is an HVAC Instructor at the Academy of Craft Training. Since 2001 Crowe has been the owner and manager of Crowe Heating & Cooling, an HVACR contractor. He has worked in every aspect of the heating & cooling industry and has been a contractor for 20 years.

Crowe received his HVACR associates degree from Gadsden State in 2000 and the following year he became an EPA certified universal refrigerant technician.

Crowe also serves as a certified police officer & is a veteran, having served in the Army in Desert Storm.

Mark D. McCord has joined the Academy of Craft Training as a Core Instructor, Training & Employment Coordinator.

One of his goals in this position is to share his experience and knowledge of the construction industry with students to help them develop the same passion for the industry. He has been in the construction industry since 2005 & has worked both domestically and overseas.
